Akhil with his proud parents

Happy moments- on Graduation

While working at Star Pipe Products, Houston, he completed his Masters in Management Information Systems from University of St. Thomas. He worked very hard to earn his graduation....and hence the smile....

While cooking also, he used to read Bhajans and other spiritual material. You can see a "Prarthan Pothe" (prayer book) lying above the Microwave.

Getting answers to spiritual inquisitives from visiting learned scholars at Keshav Shmriti

Twice making the MS150 Multiple Sclerosis charity bike ride from Houston to Austin, a 150 mile journey.

Donating blood.... just 2 days before the fateful incident.

Meditation was a ritual of Akhil Chopra's daily life.
This is the spot where Akhil was shot dead.

A memorial service was held on Sunday, August 14th at Houston. Over 400 people were in attendance and ranged in various ethnic backgrounds, age groups and occupations

Akhil's cremation was done Friday, August 19, 2005 at 10:00 am at holy town Haridwar near the banks of Ganges in India. The day happened to be Raksha Bhandan, full moon day.
